Milwaukee Art Museum by Mauree Childress

Your Milwaukee Art Museum has new hours: Wednesday, 10am-5pm; Thursday, 10am-8pm; and Friday-Sunday 10am-5pm.

Robert Henri (American, 1865-1929), Chinese Lady, 1914. Oil on canvas: 41 ¼ x 33 ¼ in

The Ashcan School and The Eight: "Creating a National Art" opens on September 23 in the second floor Bradley Family Gallery. The Ashcan School is recognized as the first American modern art movement. The artists captured everyday life at the beginning of the 20th century, a time of industrialization and cultural change, in a loose painterly style. Some praised the artists as "creating a national art" while others dismissed them as painters of rubbish or "ashcans."

There are two photography exhibitions in the Herzfeld Center for Photography and Media Arts. They are James Benning and Sharon Lockhart: Over Time Chapter II and On Repeat: Serial Photography. Over Time, Chapter II features California's Mojave Desert and a shipyard in Maine in two single-shot films brought together. On Repeat: Serial Photography draws on the Museum's collection of 1900s and 2000s photography and examines the ways artists have used serial and sequential imagery to explore their subjects.

John Wilde (American, 1919-2006), Parade IV, 2002. Oil on canvas: 25 ¼ x 41 ¼ in.

Check out new artworks on exhibit at the Museum. There is a whole gallery of Wisconsin artist John Wilde's wild surrealist paintings, a stunning Sam Gilliam sculpture, a new acquisition in the Impressionist Gallery by Swedish artist Julia Beck, and much more.

Ending October 16, in the Baker/Rowland Galleries, is Always New: The Posters of Jules Chéret. Jules Chéret brought colorful, large-scale advertisements to Paris streets, creating what critics called a "museum in the open air."

The Museum Café on the Café Level, under Windhover Hall, is open. The menu features snacks, salads, and sandwiches. Indulge in art-inspired beverages by Discourse: Coffee Workshop. The Kohl's Art Studio is open Friday–Sunday, 10am–4pm. Reserve your admission tickets and find information on parking, safety protocols, and more at mam.org/visit.
